ALL ATTACKS ARE REPULSED

French Troops Entirely Surround Fort Douaumont It is Claimed

KILL 45,000 GERMANS

Eight Thousand Corpses of Teutons on One Two-Mile Front—Eight Regiments Wiped Out.

Paris, Feb. 29.—All German attacks in the Verdun district in the last 24 hours have been repulsed, said an official statement from the war office this afternoon.

French troops now entirely surround Fort Douaumont, the official statement said.

London, Feb. 29.—More than 45,000 Germans have been killed in the assault on the Verdun positions, according to a Central News dispatch from Amsterdam today, quoting Dutch sources as authority.

On one two-mile front, the dispatch stated, were found 8,000 German corpses.

One regiment, it was stated, has been formed from the fragments of eight German regiments, nearly wiped out in the fighting around Haumont.

Endless trains of wounded from the German front were reported to be arriving at Metz. Hospitals as Coblentz, Treves, Cologne, and other German cities were said to be overflowing with wounded.

Fort Douaumont, the dispatch said, was bombarded for six hours before it was finally wrecked.

The French occupants held their positions while the fort was being blown down around them and repulsed charge after charge of the Brandenburgers, finally withdrawing, leaving heaps of German dead in front of the forts.

French guns stationed near Bras destroyed more than forty German field pieces which had been grouped together in a heavy assault against the French positions.

London, Feb. 29.—The decisive battle for Verdun is about to begin.

Checked in savage onslaughts against Pepper Heights, the Germans are moving up their heaviest artillery to blast away the armored trenches on the ridge, barring their further advance from the north.

Dispatches from Swiss sources today insist that the Verdun attack is a mere diversion. The Germans, these advices say, are about to break out with a great blow between Noyon and St. Quentin, where the battle-front is barely more than 60 miles northeast of Paris.

Swiss newspapers estimate the German dead in the early days of the Verdun offensive at about 30,000, but make no estimates on the number of wounded.

French war office officials believe the Kaiser already despairs of victory in front of Verdun and either is searching out a new road to Paris through the Champagne, or will renew the attack through Fresnes, aimed at squeezing the French out of Verdun.

Paris dispatches today, though recounting the rejoicing in the French capital over the checking of the Verdun drive, gave warning that the crown prince is about to renew the attack with all the artillery and infantry at his command. But Paris believes the tide of battle is about to turn in favor of France.

MURDER SUSPECTED.

North Carolinian Found Dead in 1912 With Two Bullet Wounds in Head.

Asheville, N. C., Feb. 29.—That F. Rogers Grant, who was found dead in the lonely woods along the Victoria Road in 1912 did not die by his own hand, but was murdered by a party to be named later is the sensational allegation contained in a suit filed by the attorneys for the estate of the dead man against the Fidelity Casualty Company, of New York. The suit is brought in New York, and C. A. Tillinghast, a member of a New York firm of lawyers, has just left here after collecting evidence in this case. The dead man carried a $5,000 policy with this company, and the company refuses to pay the claim, declaring that Rogers Grant died by his own hand, and was therefore not the victim of an accident. Attorneys for his estate, in the suit filed at New York, declare that there were two bullet holes in the dead man's head, and that he could not have fired the second shot into his own brain. Moreover, the Grant estate alleges that the shots were fired by a woman, now residing in a Southern State, and who will be named at the trial of the case.

YOUNG MAN'S HEROISM

James Beecan publishes the following in the Petersburg Progress:

On last Thursday afternoon between 2 and 2:30 o'clock. I heard the mail train coming' I went to look for my little three-year-old daughter, Dahlia, and discovered her sitting on the railroad track along which a train was approaching. I attempted to get to her, but a freight train blocked the way. I ran but could not get to the spot. I saw a young fellow jump from the mail train. He fell and slid fully twenty feet, but quick as a flash he was on his feet. The train was within a few yards of my little girl when the young man grabbed her and saved her life. The young man refused any reward for his heroic deed, and I desire to put this in his home paper in order that the people of his home town might know of his heroism. The young man said his name was Wm. Stuart, a son of Mr. M. A. Stuart, of Petersburg.

TREED IN FROZEN FLOOD.

Man Rescued From Perch in Mid-River After Companion Drowns.

Oskaloosa, Ia., Feb. 29.—Charles Thomas was rescued early Sunday morning from a tree in the flooded and icepaced Des Moines River, where he had clung to the branches many hours, after seeing a companion drown. He was half frozen and nearly lifeless.

Thomas and E. A. Rommell, Mahaska county engineers, were in a party attempting to dynamite the ice floe, when they were swept into the stream, Rommell perishing. Thomas was caughts in teh top of a tree which had bee nsumarged partly by the flood.

The swollen channel was filled with great cakes of ice hurled onward by the swift current It was deemed impossible to reach Thomas until Ray Ellis ,18 years old, in a frail skiff, made a perilous, but successful dash through the ice and dragged Thomas into the boat.

Efforts to break the ice pack have been unavailing, and Sunday night lowlands were flooded and farms threatened.

SLAUGHTERED LIKE CATTLE

BOTH SIDES SUFFER

Germans Rush Pell Mell to Certain Death, While French Cheer in Triumph at Their Defeat.

Paris, Feb. 29—"A frightful massacre," is how German soldiers taken prisoners in the battle of Verdun describe the effect of the French artillery, machine gun and rifle fire. But the impetus of the assaulting forces was not diminished thereby during the first four days, because fresh troops were thrown into the battle unceasingly.

"Advance, no matter what the losses may be," was the order given to the German troops before the attack. This is verified by documents found on one of the captured officers.

The most critical moment in the six days' action was when the Germans gained a footing in the entrenched camp by the capture of Fort Douaumont. The least hesitation on the part of the defenders would have been disastrous. The Germans redoubled their efforts to take advantage of any confusion, but the French immediately began a counter offensive.

French infantry advanced at double quick to the trumpet charge and leaped at the first rank of the Germans with irresistible fury. The clash was murderous to both sides. The thinned French ranks were not to be denied, but they went on to the second German wing, while reinforcements were hurried to their support. The German lines wavered first west of Douaumont; then were driven out of the ruins of the fort.

A cry of triumph went up all along the French line and the ardor of the counter-attack was redoubled. In the meantime an artillery duel, surpassing in intensity any previous action of the war, added to the carnage.

The battle now seems to have reached a critical point. The assaulting forces have recoiled slightly in the region of Douaumont leaving the regiments which occupied the fort cut off and surrounded by French troops. The attacks upon the French left, at Pepper Hill (Cote du Poivre), seemed to have failed completely. However, attacks made repeatedly with such heavy masses as the Germans are constantly bringing up, it is admitted by military authorities, are always likely to make further gains, provided the officers are willing to pay the price in human life.

There is no exaggerated optimism to be found in military circles here, but the check of the Germans attacking in such formidable numbers is regarded by them as one of the great achievements of the war, and it is generally held that events have taken a turn quite favorable to the French arms in the last 24 hours.

"FOLIES MAKE BIG HIT

Plays to Well Pleased Capacity Audience at New Opera House.

An exceptionally good show was presented at the New Opera House last evening. It may be considered without a doubt the best production that has been placed before the patrons of this popular house. Eddie Collins' "Follies of Broadway Co." provided an entertainment that has been unequalled here. From start to finish a crowded house was kept in an uproarious state of merriment.

Clever comedians together with good singing and dancing by an elaborately costumed chorus made up an attractive bill that met with the appreciation of all present. Eddie Collins as principal fun-maker, made good, and met with generous applause. Florence Wilmot, with pleasing personality, made a hit in her excellently rendered vocal numbers, and other members of the troupe assisted in making a most enjoyable and successful bill. Special mention should be made of the work of Hal Pine, who was well received by a delighted audience. An entire change of bill will be given by this company tomorrow night, and also on Friday evening.

This evening the management has secured one of the Wm. Fox Inc., best films, entitled, "Princess Romanoff," and featuring the popular actress Nance O'Neill. This drama in five reels give the utmost scope to the emotional, and dramatic talent that this artiste possesses, and has scored a success wherever it has been thrown upon the screen.

VIRGINIA DRY 2 YEARS HENCE

Absolute and Complete Prohibition in Cities and Counties

AWAITING DECISION.

Outcome of Webb-Kenyon Law, Now Before U. S. Supreme Court, Will Bear Upon the State

Richmond, Feb. 29—Absolute and complete prohibition is possible to every city and county in the State at this time—or when the new law becomes operative—if they so determine. They have that right under the law.

Even if there are no counties or cities so deciding there will be two years hence a move to make Virginia dry. Senator Mapp who led the fight for the prohibition and companion bills, made it clear that such was the intention of the State two years hence.

Before the next Legisiature comes here there will have been a decision in the Webb-Kenyon law which is now before the Supreme Court of the United States. That law absolutely prohibits the shipment of liquor from a wet State into a State in which prohibition obtains.

The law is being tested by the express companies of West Virginia, which have brought suit to have the matter adjudicated. They seek to have a final hearing and ruling.

If the law is held valid then there can be no shipments whatever into States which have shut out liquor. Under no pretext whatever will liquor be allowed to be sent from one State to another, and those who have asked for a law to prohibit the bringing in of liquor will have their wishes gratified.

Pending the decision of the Webb-Kenyon law's validity, the bill regulating liquor in Virginia was drawn. The fact that there had been no decision in the matter dictated the drawing of the Virginia bill so that the shipments could be regulated to the minimum. It is believed that, in case the law is declared void, the one quart per month will be enforced, and in that way the volume of drinking will be reduced to the minimum.

Senator Mapp will, in accordance with his announced plan, at the next session of the Legislature, offer a bill to wipe off the quart per month, and see to it that Virginia will have nothing but prohibition after that time. This will be done by enacting a new bill repealing the one which has already passed the Senate, and which will simply provide that no liquor of any sort shall be made, sold, transported, furnished, served, given, stored or supplied to any person or persons at any time anywhere in the State of Virginia, retaining the penalties that obtain at this time ,and also providing for the re-enactment of the "ouster" law, which seeks to force officers to do their duty.

The local option prohibition bill, which passed the Senate Saturday, is a measure which seeks to give to each community the right of allowing shipments within their borders.

The voters have the right when 25 per cent. of those entitled to vote shall ask that an election be held. If the majority of the voters declare that they are opposed to having any whiskey shipped in to them, then the law will be enforced and there will be no shipments. In case there be those who dare to risk the penalty of the law and who get liquor, the opportunity for jail terms and heavy fines stare them right in the face. And the common carriers or person bringing in such liquor will share the same fate as the person who shall have it in his possession.

It remains to be seen if the House will grant an extension of time to the concerns engaged in the liquor business to close out after October 31st. They have tried to get ten days or less, but the statement has often been made that they have had more than two years in which to get ready for the end, and they are still clamoring for more time.

LA PROVENCE IS SUNK

Eighteen hundred persons were aboard the cruiser, an official statement from the ministry of marine stated.

Of this number, 296 of the crew have been landed at Malta, and about 400 on the Greek island of Melos.

JUDGE DEFIES BLACKHAND.

To Sit in Youngstown Cases in Face of Threats.

Cleveland, O. Feb. 29.— Federal Judge Clarke decided yesterday to personally conduct the trial, which began today of the four men charged with breaking into and destroying the postoffice at East Youngstown, on January 7, instead of having it tried by Judge Killits, of Toledo, as was arraigned for on last Thursday, Judge Clarke gives as his reason for the change that the falsehood has been widely published throughout the country that he declined to try the case because a threatening blackhand letter had been written to a newspaper at Youngstown in which his life was threatened.

"It will never do," said the Judge "for the false notion to get abroad that a federal judge can be deterred by fear or by any other unworthy cause from doing his duty in the trial of any case which may come before him."

WATCHING FELIX DIAZ.

Mexican Reported to be Creeping Back to Country to Launch Revolution.

Washington, Feb. 29.—Felix Diaz, who has been watched for several months by Department of Justice agents because of suspected activities in violation of American neutrality, apparently has left the United States for Mexico with the intention of launching a new revolution against the Carranza de facto government. Information reaching officials here indicate that he hopes to organize and lead the troops of his native State, Oaxaca, and such other forces in Southern Mexico as he can gather about him.

General Diaz left New Orleans Friday for Havana where several Mexicans whose names have been associated with him in reports of a revolutionary movement were understood to be awaiting him. Teodoro Dehesa, a former governor of Vera Cruz, and Gen. Aurelioano Blanquet, war minister under Huerta were reported to be among them.

Saturday afternoon they were all sitting in the kitchen of his house when he told a man by the name of Victor to kiss Laura. GERMANY'S NEW SUBMARINE LAW

Warfare as Outlined in Lusitania Case to be Followed

WILL BEGIN TONIGHT

No Further Action by United States Until Appendices to Memorandum Are Received.

Washington, Feb. 29—The German government notified the United States yesterday that its new submarine campaign against enemy merchantmen is justified under international law and will be launched, as planned this midnight.

At the same time officials of the State Department and the German Embassy said they were not apprehensive of new submarine difficulties while negotiations are pending.

The German Ambassador told Secretary Lansing that no passenger vessel will be attacked unless the submarine commander has positive proof that it is armed.

Semi-official warning was given later from high administration quarters that Americans will take passage on enemy passenger vessels, armed for defense, at their peril.

Secretary Lansing received the German communication without comment He announced afterward that the United States will take no further action until the appendices to the German memorandum, giving what Germany contends is proof of illegal use of armament by British merchantmen is received from Berlin.

Later it was said at the State Department that while the United States stood unalterably for the right of a merchant ship to carry guns for defense it was not now and never had been contending that Americans could travel with immunity on ships having orders to act offensively.

Berlin, Feb 29—German submarines will torpedo no passenger liners without warning, even after the new order to sink armed merchantmen goes into effect at midnight Tuesday the United Press was reliably informed today.

Furthermore ,submarine commanders will endanger human lives only in case a steamer attempts to escape to fire on the submarine, or to ram her.

In their new campaign, the United Press was informed, U-boat commanders will act under these instructions:

They will not torpedo every ship encountered, trusting to prove later that they were armed.

They will not violate instructions previously given to warn passenger liners.

They will not endanger human lives unless the ships attempt to escape, to ram the attacking submarine, or to fire on her.

In short, the difference between the past and the present, as regards passenger liners, is that in the future armed liners will not be considered legitimate peaceful trading ships.

It can be stated definitely that Germany, by the new regulation, is not courting trouble with America.

But if some future accident endangers Americans or causes American loss of life, Germany will be convinced that the responsibility will not rest with her, inasmuch as she has fully warned Americans publicly, and the American government officially.

FAILED TO GET MONEY.

Thief Pulled Stocking From Woman's Leg, But Missed $400.

Hartford, Conn. Feb. 29.—Sunday night was one of the coldest of the winter in this city, and Mrs. Annie Dietz, prudently wore woolen sleeping hose, when she went to bed. Testifying in Court yesterday against Michael Arenwich, who was held in $500 bonds for burglary and attempted theft from person, Mrs. Dietz explained; "As I was placing a roll of $400 down my stocking I heard a slight noise, and, looking out, thought I saw this man stepping back from my bedroom window. The next I knew I was awakened by feeling one of my stockings being pulled off. Before I could turn on a light the intruder jumped through the window and disappeared with my left stocking."

The chief reason why Arenewich was charged merely with attempted theft was a slight miscalculation on his part, for Mrs. Dietz put the roll down her right stocking.

EXPLOSION KILLS THREE

Many Injured and Thirty Houses Demolished in Suburb of St Louis

St. Louis, Feb. 29—Three persons are known to have been killed and many injured, seven seriously, when five cases of dynamite stored in a small building for use in sewer construction work, exploded late yesterday afternoon at Maplewood, a suburb of about 5,000 people, southwest of St. Louis.

Thirty houses were demolished and many others damaged. Tonight searching parties are seeking for more bodies which it was feared had been buried in the wreckage.

The first reports were that the explosion had resulted in an appalling loss of life. Ambulances and patrol wagons in St. Louis and four fire companies were rushed to Maplewood. The cause of the explosion has not been learned.

KISS FOR AUTOMOBILE

Davenport, Iowa, Feb. 29.—That the kiss which Mrs. Bertha Spangler claims she gave Thomas Brown for an automobile was a fair trade, was the verdict of a Scott county jury.

Brown brought suit in an attempt to show that he was the owner of the car and had merely let Mrs. Spangler his housekeeper, use the machine. The woman testified that Brown had given her the car, the compensation being a kiss.

The jury was out for four hours before a verdict was finally agreed upon which gave the machine to the woman.

W. L. DAVIS ON ITS RUN

Steamer of People's Line Continues River Trips Without Interruption.

In the Gazette yesterday was published an item in reference to the steamer "W. L. Davis" of the People's line being libeled in Washington on Saturday by the operators of the steamer "Gratitude" who accused the "Davis" of colliding with it February 5th near Marshall Hall.

The libel proceedings were before Judge Siddons acting as an admiralty court who authorized the U. S. Marshall to hold the "Davis" until March 5th. when the answer to the alleged libel would be made. Before this was done, however, the officers of the People's line gave bond in the sum of $6,000, double the amount which was claimed by the "Gratitude" and therefore retained possession of the vessel.

The "Davis" did not fail to make a single trip and Captain W. L. Davis general manager of the People's line stated today that there had been no interruption to the service of the boat nor would there be any.

The People's line is an Alexandria institution that has made good since it came into existance a year ago and its owners plan extensive improvements during the coming year.

RODENT METEOROLOGY

Four of the Six Weeks of Wintry Weather Following February 2d About to End

The ground hog failed to see its shadow hereabouts on the 2d instant and, according to that sage rodent, the backbone of the winter of 1915-1916 was supposed to have been broken. Per contra, we have had frigid weather and sudden changes suggestive of blizzards throughout the month. The transitions from spring temperatures to those of mid-winter have been rapid, and no one could tell what twenty four hours would bring forth. Snow and freezing weather are reported in all sections, and, according to the weather bureau it will be flying here during the next few hours.

March will make its advent tomorrow, when sudden changes may be expected during the next thirty-one days. The planet will pass through the equinoxtial period about the twenty-first and St. Patrick's Day (the seventeenth) is generally menaced by all sorts of weather.

But we are drawing near the close of the dismal wintry season. During the next two or three weeks we may expect to hear thunder, and shad and herring harbingers of spring, will be appearing in the lower Chresapeake Bay. Later they will find their way into the Potomac and other fresh water streams.

The old and infirm, however, who dread the grip, still have the Ides of March to cause them anxiety. The season for this malady has not passed away, and conditions will be uncertain until the balmy April sun causes the buds to swell.

The ancients personified winter in Niobe. She was represented as having several daughters, Frost, Snow, Hail, etc. Apollo, representing the sun at a certain time slays Niobe's daughters. The Sun god is coming, and he will repeat the tragedy he has been enacting from time immemorial.

THE KAISER'S PERSONALITY.

When Julius Caesar was battling with Pompey, the great Roman was compelled to cross a body of water during a raging tempest. Caesar was in disguise. While the wind was blowing at fearful velocity and the waves rolling and dashing into the boat, the crew turned white with fear and were about to desist in their attempts to keep the craft from being engulphed. At this juncture Caesar arose and cried, "Quid times? Caesarem vehis!" (Of what are you afraid? You have Caesar on board!)

During the past few days most of the dispatches from the western battle front mention the fact that Emperor William is hurrying to and fro in the rear of his army endeavoring to inspire courage in the Germans because he is in their midst. But his royal presence is not diminishing carnage. The snows are crimson with the blood of his soldiers, and thousands are being mowed down by the guns of the allies. There has, so far, been no decided victory for the Teutonic arms, and the outcome of the Kaiser's terrible smashes is still enigmatical.

In the case of Caesar the boatmen became courageous when they discovered the identity of their passenger, and succeeded in getting the galley ashore. Will the Germans play a similar part while gazing upon the inverted ends of William's moustache?

VOTING BY MAIL

The Norfolk Ledger-Dispatch suggests that it is not apparent that the bill permitting voting by mail will do as much good as harm; in fact on the face of it there seems to be opportunity under its provisions for great confusion and possible fraud. The Richmond Times-Dispatch, says the Senate should very closely scrutinize the provisions of this measure. It says:

If the Hobson bill passes the Senate, Virginia will be committed to the system of absentee voting. By the terms of the bill, a traveling man absent from his precinct on election day may send his ballot to the registrar in a sealed envelope; registrars are required to forward blank ballots on application. No doubt voting by mail will mean a great convenience to many men called away from home at election time. But there are certain possibilities in the system which should be carefully guarded against. The chances of immediate fraud in absentee voting are less evident than the probable trend towards careless ness which such a system may develop.

The ballot cannot be too carefully safeguarded, and if voting by mail leads to a general condition of absentee voting, serious harm will result. The Senate should see that the provisions of the bill are sufficiently explicit to prevent any stretching of the privilege to other classes of citizens than those for whom the indulgence is expressly intended.

FEARFUL CARNAGE

According to dispatches from the western war zone of Europe red cross surgeons estimated last night that 30,000 wounded soldiers of both arties are dying on the snow-clad ridges and plains. Their comrades dare not attempt their rescue. For mile around the battlefield is covered with human carrion, while hundreds of bodies, carried down the streams which crisscross the Terrain, are being swept to the Meuse and down the breast of that river.

History gives many sickening descriptions of the results of wars and commotions in past ages. The clogging of rivers by human bodies is occasionally mentioned. During the French Revolution one writer tells us the guillotine was kept incessantly at work, so much so that it became necessary to dispose of the bodies of the victims in some other manner than decent sepulture; hence many were cast into the river Seine. In a short time huge eels, one writer, an Englishman, telling us they were of the proportions of boa constrictors, were attracted to the Seine where they fed upon human carcases ad libitum

The chapter in the history of the French Revolution will stand parallel to that in the annals of the past few days in the western war zone of Europe. Eels may again feed upon human carcases.

TAXES AND DEATH.

(Richmond Times-Dispatch).

German newspapers are not welcoming the new war taxes, just announced by the government. The conservative press dislikes them because they interfere with the war profits of manufacturers and the incomes of landowners, while the Socialists say the load will fall heaviest on the already overburdened shoulders of the poor. All newspaper opinion is inclined to be critical, because the taxes represent repudiation of the government's solemn announcement made six months ago that there were to be no war imposts.

According to that earlier announcement, the expenses of the great struggle were to be financed by means of loans and made good, at the conclusion of peace, by a gigantic indemnity wrung from a defeated enemy. The indemnity no longer seems so certain, while the depreciation of German currency and the heavy discount at which the war bonds are sold are alarming German financiers and making new taxes imperative.

No wonder the Kaiser throws his heroic veterans on the guns of Verdun, in a last desperate attempt to bring the conflict to an early and victorious close!

Professor W. B. Allwood, of Albermarle county looked upon the cider provision as an act of bad faith on the part of prohibition leaders who sought support for the enabling act in September, 1914, on the strength of the promise implied, if not actually expressed, that the manufacture and sale of cider would in no way be interferred with when the Legislature of 1916 drew up the full prohibition program. In now undertaking virtually to kill this industry, he said, the prohibitionists have taken an unfair advantage of the apple growers, who realize a large revenue from the sale of their windfall and cull fruit, and the owners and operators of cider mills, who have much money invested in this business.

$1,000 BILLS TO SERBIANS

Society Leaders at Palm Beach Toss Money Into Hat At Benefit

Palm Beach, Fla., Feb. 29—Some of the leaders of Philadelphia society gave hundred and even thousand dollar bills as if they were nickels at a meeting in the interest of war sufferers here.

Edward T. Stotesbury was chairman. He put in a $1,000 bill when the hat was passed and his wife publicly offered to assemble Philadelphia society leaders in the new ballroom of the Stotesbury Philadelphia home the third week in March and repeat the performance.

Another Philadelphia woman, Mrs. Hamilton Rice, formerly Mrs. George Widener, put five $1,000 bills into the basket. Many other Philadelphians contributed large sums, $17,000 cash being taken in all, besides pledges for a large amount. Kingsley Macomber, of California, who is well known in Philadelphia society, put in a $500 bill, and, walking out to the office of the Breakers Hotel, obtained five $1,000 bills, which he added to his contribution.

The woman who made the war address and will visit Mrs. Stotesbury in Philadelphia is Miss Kathleen Burke, the granddaughter of Edmund Burke. She is a girl of twenty-five and a wonderful speaker. She joined the English army as a nurse, and is on a two months leave of absence to raise funds for a Serbian hospital caring for 6,000 patients and conducted entirely by women.

As she told her war story she had her audience in tears much of the time, but often again laughing. This tremendous collection, and the arrival of seven private cars in one day are typical of the present season at Palm Beach.

Mr. and Mrs Arthur Curtiss James gave $1,000; James and Charles Deering, $500 each; Mrs. Francis Burrall Hoffman, $300; former Governor William L. Douglass, of Massachusetts $100.

The gift of a bed at $250 each was received from Mr. and Mrs. Henry Phipps, Trueman H. Newbury, Mr. and Mrs. William P. Snyder, Mrs. Harry Darlington, Mrs. William Disston, Philadelphia, and others.

STEAL HALF A MILLION.

Four Mail Pouches Disappear From Baltimore and Ohio Train.

New York, Feb. 29.—Postoffice inspectors admit that an arrest is momentarily expected as the result of the theft here of four pouches containing registered mail of an estimated value of $500,000.

In many respects the theft has proved one of the most mysterious the postal authorities have had to contend with in many years. Committed early Saturday morning, it was kept quiet until today, pending a thorough investigation.

The essential details, as outlined by the authorities are, as follows:

Baltimore and Ohio train No. 520 left Washington Friday night at 8 o'clock, arriving at Jersey City at 2:56 o'clock Saturday morning.

On board were six registered mail pouches in charge of J. H. McCall, of Baltimore. Three pouches contained Baltimore mail; three contained Washington mail.

At Jersey City the registered mail was placed and locked in a screened truck, after being checked off, to be taken to Manhattan.

In checking out the six registered pouches at the new postoffice the loss of four of the pouches was discovered. They disappeared while the truck was en-route from Jersey City.

The two most important pouches, one from the Riggs Bank, in Washington, and the other from the Treasury Department, were not taken. Unofficial sources estimate that these two pouches contained mail valued at $1,000,000.

As she left a train, accompanied by Pappas, she met W. J. Buchheit, a Katy machinist, felt the old love return for him, remembered her early sweetheart days, and consented to marry him. Buchheit secured a marriage license and the ceremony was performed in the Texas and Pacific station. Pappas was there and congratulated both bride and bridegroom.

"WHY SWEAR, DEAR? USE "GETS-IT" FOR CORNS"

It's The New Plan. Simple. Sure as Fate. Applied in a Few Seconds.

"Why, John I never knew you to use such language! I've told you several times it's no use to try those bandages, salves, tapes, plasters, and contraptions for corns. Here's some 'Gets-It, it's just wonderful how easy, 'clear and clean' it makes any corn come right off. Takes but a few seconds to apply. It dries at once. Put your sock on right over it,—there's nothing to stick or roll up, form a bundle of your toe, or press on the corn. It's painless, simple as rolling off a log. Now put away those knives razors and scissors, use 'Gets It' and you'll have a sweeter disposition and no more corns and calluses.

NOTICE

WATCH THE DYE—Consult your dealer before purchasing colored goods, as to the washing qualities thereof.

A canvass of the textile trade, by representatives of trade papers, and Laundrymen's Associations, show a large majority of dye houses, connected with textile mills have closed down, due to the shortage of fast colors, and the prohibitive prices, of that little which remains.

The better quality of shirtings, and wash goods now being worn are fast colors, but this cannot continue for any great length of time.

The colors which are most questionable at the present time are: Red; blacks, in cotton ginghams. black, blue and tan, hose, of medium quality; blue materials, etc.

Under these circumstances, and for further reasons, that there is no known method whereby fugitive colors can be washed so that they will not run, and no way of knowing whether colors are permanent, except by washing, we beg to notify our friends and the general public, that we use every care in handling colored goods, but cannot be responsible when goods fade or crock, as some of them surely will.

Some makers of colored wash goods are already notifying the dealers they cannot guarantee the permanency of colors.

In view of the situation we strongly urge our customers to use as much white goods as possible until such time as the permanent dyes will be again available.
